In the wild, animals have instincts to help them survive a wide variety of life-threatening situations. Whether in the air or sea, or on land, animals will migrate hundreds or thousands of miles to find food and shelter as seasons and temperatures change (Garcia, 2012). They also are equipped with multiple tools for defense and attack; Rodman (1999) shows some of these are instinctual, while others are taught by parents to their young to ensure survival.

However, as humans have bred the wildness out of domesticated animals, it is imperative to study...
Citing Quotes: ALWAYS use page numbers when directly quoting a source. The page number is optional if you are paraphrasing.

- With page numbers: Put page numbers directly after end quote marks even if it is not the end of the sentence:

  Rhetoric comes before speech because “rhetoric, as energy, has to exist in the speaker before speech can take place” (Kennedy, 1992, p. 4).

  Kennedy (1992) states the “receiver’s interpretation of a communication is prior to the speaker’s intent” (p. 7), in that if the recipient does not act when the message is received, the message is rendered meaningless.

- For online sources with no page numbers, use paragraph numbers, if provided by source. DO NOT COUNT paragraphs and provide your own numbers.

  Koren (2019) says most fast radio bursts “are one-off events, and identifying their source right away is a significant achievement” (para. 13).

- If a source has no page numbers or paragraph numbers, defer to your instructor’s guidelines. Otherwise, cite as if it were a general reference and not a direct quote.

- If you are citing a secondary source (information your primary source has taken from another source), put the original author in the text and write “as cited in” your citation.

  Barth said the difference could easily be found by looking through key texts (as cited in Frank & Hemingway, 2008).

For more information on quotations, see pages 92-92 and 170-173 in the APA Manual, 6th edition.

What to include in a citation?

- In general, the more information you can include the better. You want your readers to be able to find your sources if they want to read them for themselves.
- All sources used in a paper must be included in the References. Any source NOT used in a paper should be excluded from the References list.
- If this handout does not contain an example of your reference type, more options can be found at www.apastyle.org.

General order of information, including punctuation:

Author. (Year). Title of article. Title of Periodical, volume number(issue number), page numbers. doi/Retrieved from URL

- Chapter titles, lecture titles, episode titles, etc., are not italicized. Titles of books, journals, magazine, websites, etc., are italicized.
- For Chapter titles and Book titles, only the FIRST WORD and PROPER NAMES are capitalized. Journal Titles capitalize all IMPORTANT words (such as nouns, verbs, and words more than 4 letters long).
- There is NO SPACE between the volume and issue numbers for journals. Volume numbers are italicized, issue number are not. [e.g. 11(4)]
- There is NO punctuation at the end of the doi or URL, if one is included, otherwise period after page number.
- Authors are listed alphabetically by last name and first initial(s) only, not full first names (e.g. Clay, R.).
- Use & symbol rather than the word “and” with multiple authors.

Tips for making a hanging indent.

Microsoft Word Software: Select the sources you are ready to format. On your Home tab, click the arrow to the right of the word Paragraph (it is pointing down and to the right). This will open a new menu. Look for the Indentation section and the option Special. Click the Special dropdown and select Hanging.

Word Online (TTU Student Version): Click on downward-pointing triangle to the right of the icon that had horizontal lines and a backwards ‘P’ (Paragraph icon). Click on Special Indent. Click on Hanging Indent.

Google Docs: On the top ruler there is a rectangle that shows the words First Line Indent and the downward-pointing triangle that shows the words Left Indent. Leave the First Line Indent rectangle at the 0.00 mark on the ruler. Slide the triangle a half inch to the right.
